

JOE STENGER

Joe Stenger is proud to be the father of two sons, grandfather of two girls, and married to Kathleen. Joe was a rural family doctor and teacher for three decades in No. CA and in central MA, then a palliative consultant at Legacy Emanuel for the last decade. His education was at Yale for undergrad, then at UConn for medical school. Joe's younger years were spent mostly in overseas schools, moving every 2-3 years due to his father's job in US embassies, with a family of eight siblings, no less!

Joe's early interest in nature led him into the environmental movement, along with activism in peace, anti-nuclear and single-payer work. The crisis of climate has become his primary focus, while retiring in 2022 has allowed him to get more involved with MCAT. Joe is glad to be able to link arms with this exceptional group of like-minded people in the struggle.
